SPRING NOVELTIES

LADIES' JERSEYS!

Just received from the Eastern Markets. Prices range from $15 each downward.

LADIES' PURE LINEN COLLARS & CUFFS,

Only 5 cents!

TUESDAY, MARCH 10th.

GALA DAY FOR THE LADIES

At our house, as on that morning, at 9 O'CLOCK, we shall INAUGURATE THE LARGEST SALE OF LADIES' LINEN COLLARS AND CUFFS ever held on this coast. The immense quantity of 500 dozen will be placed on our counters promptly at the time advertised. This MAMMOTH LOT comprises many of the latest and best styles of both standing and turn-down; every size being represented, both with and without capes. Some of these COLLARS are slightly soiled, or may contain a small imperfection; but the quality of all is pure linen, and in most cases of the very finest grade. An opportunity of this kind is seldom offered, and any lady failing to profit by it will be doing herself a great injustice. A LINEN COLLAR is a very necessary article of dress; nearly every lady can use a LINEN COLLAR to advantage. The stock and assortment is large, but the price has been placed so low that an early visit will be necessary in order to reap the full benefit. Keep the house and date well before your mind, for the like chance may not again offer itself. Profit by the opportunity now at your command.

A MISERABLE REGIMENT.

It is a matter of profound regret that the Legislature is about to adjourn without having enacted into law a few simple business laws regarding the receipt of fees by State officers.

The whole State has been scandalized by the exposure of loose and irregular, not to say dishonest, methods of collecting, entering, and disbursing fees by State officials. It has been admitted that there is absolutely no check in the present system that would be tolerated in a corner grocery business for a day.

The Legislature has had full notice of the glaring failure of the present system. There is no excuse for having neglected to reform it. As it now stands, a State officer performing service for which a fee is paid, is required to enter the transaction upon a fee book—not so; we believe there is no law requiring any specified form of fee book to be kept.

It is required simply to collect the fee and pay it over to the Treasurer. But suppose he does not do so. Except by investigation his failure to do so cannot be discovered. More than this—there are scores of transactions which no investigation can disclose. As a single instance: Suppose "A" in London orders from a State officer a certified copy of a given document, or a certificate that a notary is a notary, or a transcript of a pleading, etc., what is there to prevent the official doing the service intended to enter it and pocketing the fee? Nothing. It is wholly unlikely that anyone will ever hear of "A" again, and at best "A" will never be brought from London to testify, even if by good luck the theft is found out. Then, too, the system at present in vogue requires an investigation at a costly cost and long search to discover if all fees are paid in. Even then it is speculative—that is to say, the investigator can only go through the documents on file and estimate what should have been charged for each, and ascertain if the aggregate balances the sum paid in an official term. We submit that this is child's play; a most reckless and unpardonable way of doing business. Months ago we called attention to these defects in the law. We renewed notice when the Legislature met, but no amendment of the law has been made. Yet amendment would be no difficult task. Let it be provided that the officer doing the service shall not receive the fee, but that another shall. Thus, if "A" in London, or "B" in San Francisco, orders a service in the office of the Secretary of State, or Surveyor-General, or any other department, let him make the order upon the Controller, who will enter it and transfer it to the proper department. In this way "A" and "B" are put to no inconvenience. It is as easy for them to address one official as another, and an absolute check is thus established. In the matter of fees in the Supreme Court, a different check system would be necessary, but one can easily be devised. We submit that neglect of this matter is little less than criminal. The testimony given in the investigation into Friday reveals a practice that emphasizes the necessity for business rules being applied. We have no disposition to prejudice the McCarthy case, but aside from all questions of criminal intent, assuming the testimony of Kibbey, a Deputy Clerk, to that effect, a license has been provided that department that is shameful, and the Legislature would be fully justified in remaining in session sufficiently long to suspend the constitutional requirements, and summarily pass a law to prevent the possibility of such transactions in the future. Thus Kibbey is reported as testifying that the Chief Clerk instructed his deputies to enter no money over without his knowledge. If a dollar came in the pocket of a party were allowed to keep private funds on deposit mingled with public funds. That the Chief Clerk kept no record of such mingling—it was all a matter of memory, said the witness. It was understood that there would be exercised no care in making up monthly reports, but that at the end of the year the Clerk would go over the books and files and straighten things up in a supplemental report. This is what was done, and the public knows the result for it. In the face of the law requiring sworn monthly reports, in which the affidavit swears he has paid in all money received to that date, we have the sworn testimony of a deputy that the law was treated with contempt. This means that at least in some lands no supplemental reports would ever be made unless investigation forced the official to file them. Whether the present inebriated would have so acted, we do not undertake to say. But we do say that a system under which such looseness is possible is shameful, and the Legislature must be held responsible for its continuance. In a bill of twenty lines it can correct the whole system, and in twenty minutes it can make that bill law.

The Great Gibson-Lewis Race-Gibson the Victor.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 8th.—The 125-yard race at Central Park yesterday afternoon between Charles F. Gibson and Frank Lewis proved to be one of the best contests of the kind ever seen on the coast. The race was for $1,000 a side. The money was deposited with the Morning Call, and both went into training, Gibson at San Jose and Lewis at Oakland, under the care of some Oregon friends. Previous to the race the lives of the pools was extraordinary, and as the audience was large, the odds were high. Lewis and Gibson sold at $50, even with Lewis first choice. So wonderful was the contest for law and order, the odds were high. Lewis and Gibson sold at $50, even with Lewis first choice. So wonderful was the contest for law and order, the odds were high.

Witness then went on, in response to questions by Mr. Hart, and detailed the manner in which the matter of making out monthly reports, etc., was handled.
